

MUSLIM COMMUNITY SCHOOL, Potomac, MD

This month, May 2003, C-SPAN is teaming with Comcast, its Washington, DC affiliate, to create a unique educational experience for students at 40 DC-area schools. National journalists and leaders from the Administration, Congress, federal courts, and federal agencies will be invited by C-SPAN to "return to the classroom" at schools in Comcast's service area to discuss leadership and their commitment to public service. C-SPAN cameras will record the events so these lessons in leadership can be shared with students across the country and with C-SPAN's national viewing audience.

All the school sessions, including yesterday's session at MCS are available in web cast format at <http://www.studentsandleaders.org/video/>.

Muslim Community School (MCS) of Potomac, Maryland was invited to participate as one of the 40 DC-area schools. On May 9, Dr. Mary Frances Berry (http://www.studentsandleaders.org/speakers/dr_berry.asp), Chairman, Civil Rights Commission, was selected to meet with MCS students.

The MSC students spent 1 hour with Dr. Berry in a very open, spontaneous and cordial question and answer session in which MCS students asked Dr. Berry questions that were thoughtful and thought provoking. Dr. Berry's responses clearly connected with the students and transferred real insights into what comprises activist leadership.
